December 2012

FROM THE PRESIDENT – JOHN KELSEY

The first order of business is a reminder of our annual holiday party. It will be at the James Lee Center on Wednesday, December 12th, beginning at 6:30 instead of our normal 7:30 start time for meetings. It will be in room 113, which is a change of location for those of you with good memories, because the labs are torn up for renovation of the building's heating system.

This is a potluck dinner, and everyone is asked to bring a dish to share. Remember that you don't need to feed the entire group – there's always plenty of food. The Chapter will provide soft drinks, water, paper products, and utensils. Casseroles or other main dishes, side dishes, salads, and desserts are encouraged. I hope that all of you can come.

At the party, we will try to dispose quickly of two items of business:

- You will be asked to vote for a slate of officers for 2013. The slate includes:
  - Vice President – Chris Havlicek
  - Corresponding Secretary – Maggie Johnson
  - Treasurer – Isabella Pease
  - Chapter Certification Liaison – Ann Wood
  - Chapter Webmaster – Diane Schug-O'Neill
  - Datum Point Editor – Patrick O'Neill

The slate does not include a candidate for president or for recording secretary. That's simply because, after contacting more than

NVC CHRISTMAS PARTY

Don't be a mean one,
Mr. Grinch!

Come to the NVC's 2012 Christmas Party
Rm 113 at the James Lee Center!
Starts at 6:30 pm on December 12th.

twenty Chapter members, we have been unable to find someone willing to take on those positions. Maggie has agreed to step up and perform the duties of both the recording and corresponding secretaries. We should still try and fill this position as soon as we can.

Regarding the presidency, I offer the following basic "to do" list based on other experiences as president of the NVC:

1. Chair the monthly meeting
- 2) Write a monthly President's Message for the Datum Point.
- 3) Go to ASV Board meetings

Beyond those items, the president can pretty much decide to do as much or as little as he or she wants. I should also note that the other officers are very helpful and a big part of the Chapter's success. When I was elected, I was nervous about speakers for our meetings, but Diane has done a great job with this. She's already got speakers lined up through the first half of 2013.

It is disappointing no one has come forward. As I look back on the last three years, there have been times when it's been a fair amount of work. But I have to say that, if you're seriously interested in archaeology as a non-professional, being chapter president is a very rewarding opportunity to make real contributions and to deepen personal relationships with other chapter members and members of the broader archaeological community. I'd even say that there are times when it's been fun. I'm glad that I've had a chance to do it. I also believe three years is enough and that organizations benefit from fresh ideas.

- You will be asked to vote on a major change to the bylaws for the Williams – Mullen Memorial Field Study Scholarship Fund. The change is driven by the fact that we have not been very successful in the recent past in attracting applications for grants from the Fund. Hence, the purpose of the Fund -- to enhance archaeological field skills of Chapter and ASV members -- is not being accomplished. The new draft bylaws can be found at the end of this issue of the Datum Point. The draft contains several significant changes:

(1) it broadens eligibility and removes previous provisions that give Chapter members an initial preference;

(2) it refocuses the fund on its original purpose by eliminating the 2008 amendment which broadened eligibility to FCPA interns attending meetings and conferences and to Chapter members giving presentations at meetings and conferences;

(3) it defers the annual application deadline to May 1st and extends the deadline if no qualifying applications have been received by then. Your officers unanimously recommend approval of the draft.

I want to pay tribute to Pam Cressey on the occasion of her retirement from Alexandria Archaeology. Pam has been Alexandria City Archaeologist since 1977. She spoke to the Chapter recently about her holistic (city-wide) approach to understanding Alexandria's past, using archaeology as only one of several tools, which I found eye-opening. Recently, several of us talked to Pam about strengthening ties between Alexandria Archaeology and the ASV. She was not only receptive but offered her staff and facility to organize and conduct an advanced seminar this Spring on approaches to deriving the "bigger picture" from individual artifact analysis. Fortunately, Pam says that she intends to keep on working part-time in a research and writing capacity, so we haven't lost her completely. Thanks, Pam, for all you've done for archaeology in Northern Virginia. We wish you all the best in your well deserved retirement.

Lastly, Gay joins me in wishing you all a joyous and safe holiday season. We hope you will join us on the 12th for the holiday party.

THE NORTHERN VIRGINIA CHAPTER VISITS GAULT . . . AGAIN!

A "crack crew" from the Northern Virginia Chapter (Mike Johnson, Becky Garber, Jean Teasdale, CD Cox, Steve Cox, George and Vicki Monken, Ginger and Bill McGovern, and John Kelsey) just got back from a great trip to Gault. Most of the week was uneventful. But, on the last day, Ginger McGovern hit a jackpot in the 13,800 BP, pre-Clovis age level. She discovered a large chert, late stage biface, a very finely crafted formal spur, another large edge damaged flake, and two smaller edge damaged flakes in a small area of her square (see attached photos). Mike Collins assessed the biface as having both Clovis and non-Clovis attributes, which would fit the time frame.

All of the recovered artifacts were lying flat, indicating that they had not been disturbed. This is consistent with the other artifacts from that plane and the presence of a distinct peak concentration of smaller debitage also in that plane.

HFFI Stewardship Initiative:
The Ellis-Bell Site Excavation

Earlier this year, HFFI received news that a large cache of stoneware fragments had recently turned up at the site of the new Amelia Square Townhomes development on William Street in downtown Fredericksburg.

The find's significance lay less in the shards themselves than in what they represented—possible evidence of an intact, historic stoneware kiln. In fact, historical research compiled during a 2005 survey of this property had to locate the kiln's remains. Based on archival research and the volume and distribution of stoneware fragments recovered during the dig, it appears the 1830s kiln very likely stood along William Street, near its present-day intersection with Winchester Street, but was later destroyed during the construction of a new warehouse at the same location in 1849.

Though the kiln itself was not recovered, the effort nevertheless proved a huge success. An analysis of the vessel pieces and wasters the team collected will tell us a great deal about how and what types of stoneware were being produced here. The excavation also revealed evidence of a previously unknown, pre-Civil War structure on the site and artifacts from the foundations of two 1880s brick townhomes that had burned in a 1914 fire.

This was truly a community-based effort, made possible by our dedicated volunteers (including many HFFI members!) and the monetary and in-kind contributions pledged by private citizens, the City, and several state and local organizations.

For more details on the project and the site's history, check out this article from Fredericksburg.com: <http://blogs.fredericksburg.com/newsdesk/2012/10/08/19th-century-pottery-site-is-major-find/>.

confirmed that not one, but two separate kilns had once operated at or near this location during the early 19th century: a stoneware operation run by Francis Hamilton Bell in the 1830s and an earlier, circa-1810 brick-making facility owned by the Ellis family.

Upon learning of the discovery, HFFI, in partnership with Dovetail Cultural Resource Group, sought and received approval from the property's owner, Silver Companies, to organize a salvage excavation. Over a four-day period in late October (25th–28th), a team of archaeologists and more than 30 volunteers raced ahead of hurricane Sandy

HFFI would like to offer its sincere thanks and gratitude to everyone who supported the project:

Become a JPPM Docent

Wednesdays: January 23-March 27, 2013

10:00 am - 10:30 pm

Looking for a new and exciting way to volunteer? JPPM is recruiting docents for our 2013 class. If you are a lifelong learner who would like to interact with the archaeologists, educators, and historians who bring Southern Maryland's past to life, this may be the program for you! The intensive program will provide you with in depth knowledge of the archaeology, history, and culture of southern Maryland with a specific focus on the land where JPPM sits today. You will also examine techniques and education strategies for engaging museum visitors in meaningful explorations of the past. The tuition fee is $15, all class materials will be provided. After completing the initial training course, JPPM docents further the educational mission of the Park by offering regular, high-quality interpretive services for the public in support of annual programs, workshops, and exhibits. This year JPPM is primarily in need of support for our school programs, but many other opportunities are available as a docent. For additional information contact Kim Popetz at 410-586-8502 or kpopetz@mdp.state.md.us.

The following is the proposed revisions to the scholarship fund to be voted on at the December 12th meeting.

THE JULIAN WILLIAMS AND ELEANOR MULLEN MEMORIAL FIELD STUDY SCHOLARSHIP

I. Purpose

The purpose of the field study scholarship is to provide limited financial support to individual members of the Archeological Society of Virginia (ASV) seeking to enhance their archaeological field skills through attendance at field schools that meet the criteria described below. This will enhance the level of archaeological knowledge among the ASV members through the scholarship recipient's personal sharing with the ASV.

II. Name

The scholarship will be known as the Julian Williams and Eleanor Mullen Memorial Field Study Scholarship, and is sponsored by the Northern Virginia Chapter (NVC) of the ASV.

III. Finances

The scholarship will be funded through a legal, self-sustaining contributory fund. The Archeological Society of Virginia is a certified 501(c)(3) tax exempt organization.

Contributions will be made annually from the NVC treasury, in an amount necessary to cover the deficit, if any, between the income generated by the fund and the amount necessary to pay the scholarship amount.

Contributions will be also solicited from business, government, and individuals, and accepted as voluntary.

The NVC Treasurer will maintain accurate, current financial records of contributions to and awards made from the fund, and will include this information as part of a financial report required under the NVC bylaws.

Not more than two awards will be given in any calendar year, and the total amount of the awards in a year will be limited to an amount that is the lesser of $400.00 or 25% of the corpus of the fund; however, the NVC Scholarship Committee may recommend to the NVC Executive Board and the membership a higher amount, not to exceed $750.00 or 25% of the corpus fund, under exceptional circumstances in which the potential benefits to the ASV are deemed to justify the higher level of the request.

The scholarship award may be used for: tuition and fees; travel, lodging, and subsistence expenses; equipment and supplies to be used by the recipient during the field study experience; or any other legitimate expense that serves to enhance the field study experience.

IV. Administration

The field study scholarship program will be maintained and amended in accordance with the bylaws of the NVC, or by a simple majority vote of the NVC membership at a general NVC meeting if the NVC scholarship bylaws do not apply.

The program will be administered by the NVC Scholarship Committee, with the NVC vice-president as its chairperson.

V. Eligibility

To be eligible for consideration for the scholarship the applicant must be a member of the ASV in good standing for at least four months prior to the application deadline date of May 1.

To provide opportunity to the maximum number of members, preference will be given to applicants who have not received scholarship funding during the previous three calendar years; however, this does not preclude a qualified applicant who has received support during the previous three years from applying and receiving scholarship funds if no one else applies.

To encourage archaeological skill development at the entry level, preference will be given to applicants whose primary employment is not in the field of archaeology; however, this does not preclude a qualified applicant whose primary employment is in archaeology from applying if no one else applies.

The award will not be given to anyone who is a paid staff member of the field school for which support is sought. No applicant will be considered eligible for support under this program unless and until all commitments associated with any previous award under the program have been met.

VI. Field School

The field school must be sponsored by an organization whose goals and precepts are compatible with those of the ASV and is recognized as legitimate by the archaeological profession. This may be an educational institution, a government agency, or other entity, public or private.

The NVC Scholarship Committee will give preference to fields schools located in Virginia.

VII. Commitments of the Award Recipient

A recipient of the award must:

- Attend the proposed field school for which the scholarship has been awarded and provide documentation that such attendance took place;
- Provide the NVC Treasurer with an accounting of the expenditure of the scholarship funds on a form to be provided by the NVC, with appropriate documentation;
- Turn over to the NVC any non-expendable equipment or supplies with an initial cost of more than $100.00 that were purchased with scholarship funds, except as recommended otherwise by the NVC Scholarship Committee and approved by the NVC Executive Board and a majority vote of the NVC membership;
- Make an oral presentation concerning the field school experience to the NVC at a chapter meeting, or ASV membership at the Annual Meeting. An oral presentation, which is preferable, will be made at a general chapter meeting, last a minimum of 20 minutes, and include appropriate visual aids. Alternatively, the recipient would produce a written report describing his or her participation in the project, including specifics such as the location, duration of project, type of artifacts retrieved, or other relevant information. The report should be at least three pages, doubled spaced, in Times New Roman, 12 point, or an equivalent format. Illustrations, photos, charts, graphs, and other visual pieces should not be included in the page count. The recipient may make use of assistance from NVC or ASV members in preparing an oral or written report. The report would be published in the NVC's Datum Point and/or the ASV's Newsletter, and possibly the ASV's Quarterly Bulletin, if the length and quality meets the requirements of the QB.

These above stated commitments will be agreed to in writing by the scholarship recipient at the time of the award. The recipient will agree to repay the funds if the commitment is not fulfilled.

VIII. Application and Selection Process

The scholarship program and procedures for applying will be announced in the January, February and March issues of the NVC newsletter Datum Point, and the ASV Newsletter, and any of the other ASV newsletters or mailing processes.

The applicant must submit by the application deadline date a complete application using the form provided by the NVC, including a description of the field school for which support is being requested.

The NVC Scholarship Committee will review all applications received by the deadline date and will evaluate them with particular attention to the anticipated future benefits to be derived by the ASV as a result of the recipient's field study experience.

The NVC Scholarship Committee's choice of recipient will be announced on or before the June issue of the Datum Point and ASV Newsletter, and the NVC membership's approval of the NVC Scholarship Committee's recommendation will be sought.

If by the May 1 deadline, no applications have been received, the deadline will be extended until a satisfactory application is submitted and accepted.

Digital Edition of 1942-2010

ASV Quarterly Bulletins Now Available

The ASV has completed the task of digitizing the entire run of Quarterly Bulletins from the beginning of the ASV in 1940 (with the first QB in 1942, and a short WWII hiatus) to 2010. Each of the 255 issues are scanned and in searchable PDF format. The digital QB is available on an 8GB memory stick for $15.00.
